PILE REMEDY.

Piles—What unceasing tortures arise from Internal Bleeding, External and Itching Piles. The vain endeavors to obtain even partial relief has discouraged the millions who suffer, and they have borne their agony in silence, thinking that there was no hope or prospect of a cure. Notwithstanding the total failure of the many remedies heretofore offered for the cure of piles, and the picture of agony resting on the face of those who have tried the various remedies but in vain, yet eagerly sought for and anxiously tried anything that promises the least relief until their courage has long since given place to despondency, let them cheer up, allow the smiles of happiness to illuminate the haggard countenance, and the duties of life will be performed with a degree of happiness and pleasure unknown for weeks, months or years. Briggs' Pile Remedies are the result of unceasing study and experimenting, the ne plus ultra of medical science, and in every respect safe, scientific and reliable for the cure of piles in every form. Briggs' remedies are sold by C. A. Kleim, Bloomsburg, Pa.

BUNION BALSAM.

Bunions, Corns and other ailments of the feet cause much suffering among all nations by whom shoes are worn. There is more than $10,000 worth of boots and shoes destroyed annually in the United States (in the rest of the world more than $1,000,000) by cutting while new, or nearly so, to make room for painful bunions, corns, ingrowing nails, sore insteps, etc. Besides this great sacrifice, there is paid in New York to chiropodists about $25,000 annually; in New England states about $15,000; in the Western and southern about $50,000, and in the rest of the world about $250,000; besides this there is $100,000 spent annually for caustics and other worthless compounds for the cure of Bunions, Corns, Sore Insteps, Tender Feet, etc. To avoid these great losses and expenditures, use Dr. Josiah Briggs' Bunion Balsam and Sure Corn Cure, which is the only preparation known that gives immediate relief and radically cures hard, soft and ulcerated Bunions hard, soft and festered corns, vascular excrescences, callosities large and small, sore insteps, blistered heels, tender feet, ingrowing nails, etc., without causing or leaving any pain or soreness. Warranted safe and sure. Sold by C. A. Kleim, Bloomsburg, Pa.

HOMEWARD BOUND.

Our trusty, well-beloved friend
Was homeward bound across the sea,
From lonely sojourn in far lands
He came to clasp our clasping hands,
To hear our welcome sweet;
To bring his wanderings to an end
In this dear home with mine and me,
To make my quiet bliss complete.

"I come," he wrote (his letter lies
Before me in the sunshine fair),
"I come with heart content to see
The joy which God hath given to thee,
My comrade true and tried;
I fain would see it with mine eyes,
I fain would hear thyself declare
How deep thine happiness, how wide.

"I come because I long to see
The bonny English flowers a-bloom,
Because a spirit of unrest
Doth vex my lately-quiet breast
With whispers in my sleep
Of daisied meadow, breezy lea,
Of April sunshine and perfume,
Of health-clad mountains grey and steep.

"I come because the rolling years
Have stilled the passion of my youth,
Because the ragged path of time
Hath led me up to heights sublime,
And I, who could not see
Thy first great tides for blinding tears,
I say to-day in honest truth
God's way was best for thee and me.

"I come to take thine hand, my friend,
To look upon thy sweet wife's face
To see thy children fond and fair;
To breathe again the blessed air
That fanned me at my birth;
Until (beside these to the end)
I go from forth my dwelling-place
To find a grave on English earth.

"I come, my friend." Ah me! sweet wife,
What marvel that the tears run down?
What marvel that these tender words
Smite mournfully on true heart chords,
Since he, whose thoughts they bear,
He, who had loved us all his life,
Who for love's sake laid down love's crown
Hath parted from us otherwhere?

He thought to see our happy home,
Our wedded bliss, our children dear
He thought to see thee by my side,
Who dared not look upon my bride,
Who lov'd thee in his prime;
But o'er his grave, with crests of foam
The wild Atlantic billows roar
Their heads and makes a mournful chime.

He will not see this home of ours,
This little Eden all our own,
He will not bring within our door
An added blessing to love's store
Of cheerful sacrifice;
And to the height of heavenly flowers
Our precious blossoms will have grown
Before they meet his kindly eyes.

He will not see, my sweetest wife,
Thy radiant beauty past its morn,
Nor tender traces of the tears,
The sighs and smiles, the hopes and fears,
Of wife's and mother's care.
If through the mists of falling life,
He saw thy face, it must have worn
The look that I remember there.

The April look of long ago.
When all were young and thou wast free,
And on the hawthorn-bearded away
We loitered in the glad noonday,
Beneath a sapphire sky;
Ah, wife! then dawned love's summer glow,
My beating heart sprang out to thee,
But my true friend went silent by.

He was the worthier of the twain,
His pulses beat as strong as mine,
He looked on thee with lover eyes,
And never sought to win the prize,
But standing calm apart,
Smiled brotherly upon my gain,
Ahe pressed into my cup of wine
The crush'd, ripe first fruits of his heart.

Ah, my lost friend! that tender debt
Which he had purposed to repay,
The debt which came with sweet love's birth,
Can never be repaid on earth,
But thou hast surely found
A happy end to life's regret;
God's angel met thee by the way,
And thou, indeed, was homeward bound?

Select Story.

HELEN CHURCHIL'S LOVER.

The silver gray of a summer's dawn was spreading itself over the landscape, rendering soft an indistinct all familiar objects; yet, even seen by its dim, uncertain light, he looked like one grown prematurely old by reason of hard work or withering care than as if he had merely passed from youth to age by the ordinary gentle graduations.

His brow was lined, his hair silvered, and there was a stoop in his shoulders which told of hard and continuous toil; yet, notwithstanding these drawbacks, there were the remains of youthful beauty in the well-shaped head and clear gray eyes.

He had arrived at the neighboring town too late the evening before to catch the last train to this little out-of-way hamlet, too late to do aught but to seek a bed there; but after three or four hours the restless craving to complete his journey overpowered him that he arose and pursued his journey on foot. And now with the delicate light of early morn silvering the birches and dimpling the water of the stream, he stood at length where his feet had not rested for fifteen years. But these fifteen years, awful as they had been at the time, seemed but as a dream now, scarcely to be recalled on waking, as he stood thus looking at each well remembered spot.

There was a quaint, old fashioned church, where he could remember kneeling, a tiny boy, by his mother's side and listening half consciously, as he stared about him, to the soft voice repeating the responses. He could see himself, older still, gazing bashfully from the high-curtained pew where, beneath marble slabs that spoke of the virtues of those that slept beneath a golden-haired maiden knelt; inside the church only the narrow aisle between them; outside, all the wide dividing space that lies between the village doctor's son and the eldest daughter of Squire Churchil.

With a sigh the wayfarer brought back his straying thoughts from past to present, and became aware that the sun had arisen; the birds were chirping forth an early song and the dewdrops were glittering all around—on the rose-crowned hedges by which he stood, on the sprays of eglantine; and on the far away green meadows that lay between the village of Bythrope and Bythorpe Manor, half-way up the wooded slopes opposite.

'At length I am home again,' then he muttered; 'at length,' throwing his head back with a certain joyful gesture, and stretching out a rough, toil worn hand, as if in token of greeting—'at length the years are over, the work is accomplished, the punishment wrought out, and I am back to claim my prize! Ah!' starting slightly, as a voice addressed him with a brief 'Good morning!'

'Good morning—sir.' Something in the stranger's appearance apparently brought forth that 'sir,' which had not formed part of the original sentence, but was hastily added on as he turned his head to see who had addressed him.

'You are about betimes,' the new comer went on. 'It is not many of the gentry as troubles themselves with the sight of a summer sunrise.'

'They miss much,' said the stranger, briefly. 'Though perhaps to us, who possibly have seen it nearly every morning of our lives, it is a common affair enough.'

The farmer looked at the speaker in some surprise, and he added immediately, 'I have not seen it myself for many years—in England. You belong to Bythorpe,' he went on, as if anxious to divert the conversation from any personal channels.'

'Man and boy, I have lived here these fifty years. That is my farm, pointing with a proud, possessive air in the direction whence he had come, Manor Farm.'

'Then you are——' half escaped the lips of the other; but the words passed unnoticed by his companion.

'Dick Stisted, of the Manor Farm,' he repeated. 'Mine now, as it was my father's before me, and will, please God, be my son's by and by.'

'A perfect life, Mr. Stisted—a home, a wife and little ones. What could a man require more?'

You do not possess them?' questioned the farmer, looking up, surprised at the energy in the stranger's voice.

'I am not married,' he replied, briefly. 'But,' he hastened to add, fearing his reply might have been abrupt, 'you know the place, you say; then perhaps you can tell me to whom belongs yonder house,' pointing toward the distant towers of Bythorpe Manor. 'But maybe I'm detaining you?'

'No, no,' replied Mr. Stisted, courteously, 'I'm not pressed for time. Yonder house belongs to Squire Churchil; the young Squire we call him mostly about here, seeing that his father is dead not so long since.'

'He is dead?'

'Aye, surely; and young Mr. Edward has come into the place and married a bonny wife, he has.'

'The old Squire had a daughter, had he not?'

'Two. You knew them?'

'I knew of them,' the stranger replied, evasively. And then, pointing to a small, white house that was visible through the trees, 'and to whom does that belong?'

'That?' Why to Mrs. Sutton, poor body.'

'And why do you pity her?'

'You must be a stranger, indeed sir, to ask why!'

'Then enlighten me. Tell me the story.'

They had reached the stile now, through which the farmer had first appeared upon the scene, and he paused at the stranger's words, and rested his arms upon it.

'Story! It is a queer story! Almost too sad to call by such a name! She was the doctor's wife, a sweet, pretty woman as ever I saw fifteen years ago, with a fair, hand some boy whom she was that proud to see the two together. He, the doctor himself, was a bit cross-grained—least wise, so I've heard say—and all the more reason why the mother and son should think so much of one another.

'The father did not overlike it; still he was open-handed with the young man, educated him finely, sending him to school and college until it was easy seeing that the boy who was fine-looking enough, was beginning to think no small ideas of himself. 'Tis said he even lifted his eyes to one of Squire Churchil's daughters—leastways at the last. But I am not telling it you straight on. You should come and see my wife if you wish to hear the story well told.'

'But was there such presumption?' inquired the listener. 'You say this young man was well educated and good looking, and perhaps'—after a second's hesitation—'the lady liked him.'

'He should have known his place better,' said Mr. Stisted, sturdily; 'leastways he should have learnt it. What is a young lady's fancy worth? She was but sixteen, Squire Churchil's daughters were not for such as he. However, this love-making, or whatever they choose to call it, was only discovered afterward, when everything was brought to light. And in the meantime the tragedy came.'

'Well?' asked the stranger, leaning forward with interest on her face,

'A murder was committed here. Yes, you may well start. In this quiet village, where nothing was heard of out of the common from one year's end to the other; in this village—in that lane where it joins Squire Churchil's grounds—Squire Churchil's second son was found dead. And——'

'And then, as I said before, it all came out about this poor young Sutton keeping company with Miss Churchil; for it seems the foolish young thing, not being able to see him elsewhere, had agreed to meet him in that very lane on that very night; for one of the farm laborers saw them part and her run up through the meadows home only a few minutes before he heard a cry, and ran forward to find poor Master Harry lying there dead.'

'Of course, Mr. Sutton was taken up?'

'Of course sir. But now comes the queer part of the story. For though he was tried, and it was proved most beautifully that he had killed Master Harry for telling him what he thougot of his conduct, and was condemned to be hung and was afterward only left off with transportation for fifteen years—yet now it seems——'

'That it was not he after all?'

'How did you guess that? The other day there came the news that the man had confessed to the crime on his deathbed, so that, after all, young Sutton has suffered all these years for what was no fault of his. Leastways, so the young Squire told us the other day. His mother always believed in him,' he went on, after a moment's pause. 'It will come right some day,' she often said to me; 'Mr. Stisted it will come right some day. It is some miscarrying justice.' His father died—could not lift up his head again; but his mother has aye waited.'

Something like a sob burst from his companion, and Farmer Stisted looked up in surprise.

'I have heard something of this,' he said, in a stammering fashion, in answer to the look. 'I knew this man—that is, I have met him.'

'Is that so, sir?' said the farmer, with fresh interest. 'Aye, I remember you said you had been long out of England. Well, I shall be glad to see him back, and shake him by the hand and bid him forget the past. If there is little else there is still his mother to come back to. What was he doing when you saw him, sir?'

'He had heard he was free.'

'And what was he like; as when he minded to forget the past and return to England?'

He was a saddened, sobered man when I knew him, with only one hope left out of the many life had once offered; and he was going home.'

'And what was the hope, if I may make so bold as to ask? Perhaps he knew his mother had never believed the evil, and was waiting for him?'

'Maybe; but he did not speak of her, perhaps because he was so sure of her. He told me that the last night before he left England——you know——?' The farmer nodded. 'That he had an interview with——'

'Yes, yes,' interrupted Mr. Stisted, sagely; 'we heard all about it, though it was kept so dark. It was Miss Helen, bless you, the little yellow haired Miss Churchil. Sixteen years ago nearly, so no harm in speaking of it now—and all so changed since! Well, she saw him to say good-bye.'

'Yes, so this man told me, and that they parted, she saying that let her people say or do what they might, she would await his return in perfect trust and patience.'

'A pity he did not give his love to the other sister,' remarked Mr. Stisted, 'if all stories are to be believed,'

'Why?'

'Because she was in love with him always, and plain though she was, Miss Jane was a good, true woman, and has never lifted her head at another man since those sad days.'

'Is that really true?'

'No cause to misdoubt it, sir; any one in the village will tell you the same story; and as I said before, 'twas a pity, seeing as everything has worked around right, that it was not on Miss Jane he had set his affections; for being so plain, as you might say, mayhap there would not have been such a great objection to his having her.'

The stranger made no reply, apparently being lost in thought over Farmer Stisted's last words, and he continued:

'He would not have been such a bad match in those days, for her, at least; for he was a fine, gallant looking young chap, with a pleasant word for every one.'

'You remember him?'

'Yes, well. I never thought very ill of him myself. A hasty word, a blow, these come over quickly when the blood is young.'

'Do you think I am like him?' The speaker drew himself up and stood looking with something almost like anxiety into Farmer Stisted's red, comely face. 'When I knew him,' he added, we used to be often thought to resemble one another.'

'I cannot see it myself, sir, said Mr. Stisted, slowly; 'but, then, sir, begging your pardon it is not so easy to draw comparisons between the young and the old.'

The man addressed unfolded his arms and leant once more against the stile, heaving a quick, impatient sigh as he did so. 'It is unfortunate, is it not, Mr. Stisted, that hearts do not alter as faces do?'

'Nay, sir, I cannot see as you are right there. Hearts grow older along with the faces they belong to, else husbands and wives would not get along as well as they do. As we grow older ourselves, we do not miss the youth in the face opposite; leastways, I don't in Maggie's,' said the farmer, simply.

'Perhaps that is because you see the youth still there; you remember it, you see. But if you had grown old far apart it would perhaps have been different.'

'Maybe' replied Mr. Stisted doubtfully apparently a little out of his depths. 'But come, it is time I was back at the farm. Perhaps you would like a bit of breakfast with us, sir? There'll be but little doing in the village yet a while, and my wife will be glad to see you.'

The stranger accepted the proffered hospitality, and he and the farmer turned away together.'

Maggie proved quite as hospitable as her husband had predicted, and when breakfast had been partaken of and Mr. Stisted had gone out to his work, the stranger found himself lingering on still talking to sweet placid faced Margaret Stisted.

He had half a mind to ask her about this village tragedy that was occupying his mind in the morning; but better not, he decided. And he had waited so long that a little longer could not make much difference.

So he just dwadled on about the farm and the pleasant farm garden long enough for the day's work to be well on hand, and then he wished his hostess good-bye, and with quick, impatient steps, took his way to the village.

Once there he walked straight to the footpath across the meadows that led up from Bythorpe village to Bythorpe Manor, but at the entrance gate he paused and gazed with tender eyes at the little house on the opposite side of the road that exactly faced him—the little creeper-covered cottage, where the Doctor's widow lived.

He even made one half step toward it; but 'no,' he murmured, 'she comes first. We will go there together.' But still he lingered, as if longing to pierce the mystery of those drawn blinds, and even as he thus paused, there was the sound of horses' feet, and there came in view down the narrow street a carriage drawn by two fine chestnuts.

Before it the village children fell hastily back, and standing on one side, gazing with mingled awe and admiration. And assuredly it was a sight to call forth admiration, for everything seemed so perfect; the carriage itself, the prancing horses, the fair haired girl, so like the young, lovely mother, at whose side she sat, and the little golden-headed children opposite. There was surely no fault to be found anywhere.

Only to a wayfarer standing by the road side gazing at them, the sun seemed of a sudden to be darkened in heaven, the earth to have lost the beauty of a summer's morn.

'Helen!' he cried in tones of anguish wrung from a breaking heart, but she did not hear.

She saw him, of course, for she was looking at him, wondering, may be, who this stranger was in familiar little Bythorpe. But that was all.

The dust from the carriage wheels made thick the air for a moment, and when it cleared away the vision had vanished.

'Who is it?' he questioned, when he could command his voice, turning to a villager standing by his side.

'You lady? Lady Edmeade. She's going to London. She was a daughter of the old Squire's, and married Sir Wilfred Edmeade.'

'Has she been long married?'

'Let us see now. 'Twil be fourteen years coming August, for it was the same day, I mind well, as my youngest was born. 'Eh, but she has bonnie children,' he murmured, as he turned away.

And Robert Sutton found himself alone in the bright early sun, scarcely four hours since he saw it rise for what was to have been the happiest day of his life and already the end had come.

He waited thus, reviewing this ending to his romance, for a few seconds, thinking of the sunny haired girl who had clung to him those long years ago, the tears streaming down his cheeks.

'I believe in you, Robert. Whatever the world may say I believe in you. Only swear to me that you will credit nothing against me; that you may, for I will be true to you And oh, Robert, directly you are free, come straight to me. I will wait though it be for years!'

And he had kissed her hand and sworn it. Now the oath was fulfilled—his part of it, at least; he had come back.

Then, those few brief seconds over, he crossed the little dusty road, passed the village school, whence issued the sound of many children's voices singing the morning hymn, and entered the low cottage opposite, and knelt with a great tearless sob at the feet of an old blind woman, who, putting out a withered hand and stroking softly the curls so thickly strewn with gray, murmured:

'My son, my son! Have you come, then, at last? Ah! it has been weary waiting; but I lived on, for I knew the truth must be known some day, and then you would come home.'

A Word to Mothers

Mothers should remember that a most important duty at this season is to look after the health of their families and cleanse the malaria and impurities from their systems. There is nothing that will tone up the stomach and liver, regulate the bowels, and purify the blood so perfectly as Parker's Ginger Tonic, advertised in our columns. The wonderful cures of long standing cases of rheumatism, neuralgia, and malarial disorders is the reason why this pure and excellent family medicine is so generally esteemed.—Post.

Sickles on Hancock.

A CLEAR PRESENTATION OF THE ISSUES OF THE CANVASS—THE SOLID SOUTH BUGABOO.

General Daniel Sickles has written the following letter to the chairman of the New York Campaign Committee: My impressions about the present canvass have been freely expressed to my friends and may be summed up in a few paragraphs. I have always felt that whenever the Democratic party—North and South—frankly accepted the results of the war and nominated a candidate for President who was a firm and steady friend of the Union throughout the struggle, I could then, as a war Democrat, honorably resume my former political relations. The nomination of Hancock, one of the most distinguished leaders of the Union armies; his affirmation of the inviolability of the war amendments to the Constitution; his denunciation of the unlawfulness of all reclamations set up by those who took part in the rebellion; the general favor his nomination has received in the Southern States—the "Solid" support of the South given to a Union soldier—remove the causes which have for some time alienated me from my old political friends. I shall cheerfully unite with them now to promote the election of their worthy candidate. The people do not sympathize with the struggles of the leaders of the republican party to perpetuate their power. The earnestness of Lincoln the strength of Seward, the enthusiasm of Sumner, the energy of Stanton are followed by the rivalries, jealousies and intrigues exhibited in the Chicago Convention. The patriotic zeal which animated these great men of the republican party of the past seemed to have degenerated in their successors to a mere strife for patronage and place, and days were spent in the bitter contention about candidates without presenting to the country any issue having a practical bearing on its welfare. The paramount question to be settled by the leader at Chicago seemed to be the order of their succession to the Presidency. It is desirable that the inevitable change in the political control of the government, which is no doubt eminent, shall take place under safe conditions. It is not to be supposed that any party can hold power indefinitely. The examples of our own and other countries show that an alteration of parties every few years is to be anticipated, and experience proves these periodical transactions to be wholesome and useful. Democratic control can be safely tried with Hancock. He will give us all the advantages without any of the risks of a change of administration.

Republicans and Democrats who united with so much satisfaction in electing General Grant do not seriously doubt the fitness of a soldier to fill the Presidential chair. The supporters of General Hayes and the party that has nominated General Garfield and General Arthur must have confidence in military men, unless it be suggested that neither Garfield nor Arthur have seen enough service to imperil our institutions by their martial proclivities. The country was never more fortunate than in the election of General Jackson, the champion of the Union and of a sound currency and of the government from corporations, and who raised our young Republic to the highest place of national dignity and strength. Grant and Hayes and Garfield belonged to the gallant armies of the West. It is time that the army of the Potomac—the victors of Antietam, Gettysburg, Spottsylvania and Richmond—should be remembered in the person of one of its greatest commanders. Five million votes will be cast for General Hancock. He will have the suffrages of a considerable and influential part of the population of every State in the Union. And although the greater portion of his votes will come from the North and East and West, it will represent in the aggregate every section and interest of a reunited country, as they have not been represented by any Executive since the war. All parts of the Union should share the prosperity we now enjoy. There is no doubt that the political agitation in the South, growing out of apprehended interference in their local government, and absorbing the attention of the Southern people during the past fifteen years, has seriously retarded improvements in their condition. All such fears would be tranquilized by four years of Hancock's conservative administration, and a general revival of enterprise, activity and thrift would be seen throughout the new South—the South of 1880—greatly to the advantage of the whole country.

The North means to holds fast to the results of the war. These are embodied in the recent amendments to the Constitution. General Hancock declares them to be inviolable. The South says Amen. So let it be. Let us make this a compact by electing Hancock, and so put an end to all further controversy about the fundamental questions settled by the war of secession. Let the decree be written in Hancock's own words: "When rebellion was crushed the heresy of secession in every form went down forever. It is a thing of the dead past." Neither party proposes any essential modification of the existing laws which have any relation to our existing prosperity. In the manufacturing States both parties sustain a protective tariff. Louisiana has her sugar interests, Vermont and California their wool, Georgia and South Carolina their rice, Pennsylvania her iron and coal, and indeed all the States have industries which thrive with the help of a protective tariff. Economical questions are not among the issues of this canvass. Republicans and Democrats and Greenbackers to the extent of $350,000,000 in government paper now issued—no doubt Mr. Weaver would issue more, but it is not probable that any administration would issue less. Millions of silver, not used as currency, are accumulating in the Treasury. No administration will stop this coinage. Both parties are divided in opinion as to the best course of policy to pursue towards the national banks, yet neither will disturb the present system. Mr. Bayard, the Chairman of the Finance Committee of the Senate, is a hard-moneyed man. Mr. Kelly, of Philadelphia, is a Republican-Greenback member of the Committee of Ways and Means of the House of Representatives. Cameron and Wallace, the Senators from Pennsylvania, (one a Democrat and the other a Republican), differ about most political questions, but they always unite in voting for a protective tariff. Mr Randall, the Speaker of the present Democratic House, is for tariff. Of the three principal Republican journals in this city two disapprove the existing tariff and advocate a traditional support of the protective policy. We may, therefore, safely assume that, as our prosperity is not the offspring of either party, the success of one or the other candidates for the Presidency will have no influence on the causes that must augment our resources while we happily enjoy abundant harvests, sell our products at home and abroad and save a part of our income. All we need in the Executive is an honest and intelligent administration of the government. It is a mistake to suppose that General Hancock is without preparation or experience to qualify him for Executive duties. No man without administrative ability can successfully fill the great military offices General Hancock has held during the past eighteen years. His present military jurisdiction embraces seventeen states—from Maine to Louisiana—and whether commanding large forces in the field or dealing with the difficult questions incident to reconstruction in the South, or in restoring tranquility to Pennsylvania, overrun by mobs and disturbed by riots, he has always shown the discrimination, discretion and tact which point out the man of executive capacity. At least it may be said that a stainless and successful career in the army affords as many guarantees for the faithful discharge of the functions of a Chief Magistrate as can be found in a long period of service in Congress, with its many temptations and frequent complications with interests of corporations, contractors and jobbers.

Profit, $1,200.

To sum it up, six long years of bedridden sickness, costing $200 per year, total $1,200 all of this expense was stopped by three bottles of Hop Bitters taken by my wife. She has done her own housework for a year since without the loss of a day, and I want everybody to know it for their benefit.—N. E. Farmer.

Prosperity—the Result of Democratic Legislation.

Facts cannot be denied. There is abundant evidence of prosperity on every hand in this goodly land of ours. It appears to be here to stay, but has not come from any causes assigned by radical orators and the press of that party. No sectional party is competent to legislate for the wants of the people of the whole country. A sectional party like the Republican party is too full of sectional hate and hide-bound in sectional animosities to provide measures of relief or inaugurate prosperous times for all portions of our country. It is simply beyond the power of such a party to secure the prosperity to the industries of a great people. The legitimate sphere of the sectional Republican party is in the realm of discord, hate and malice, and where evil passions and a spirit of detestations are jointly sought to be engendered and exhibited toward a portion of our common country. With such a party in power the material business interests of the people are overlooked and neglected. During the twenty years of radical rule no great measure for the relief of the depressed industries of the people has been proposed by that hateful faction. Their leaders in Congress have been too much and too deeply absorbed in DeGolyer pavement rascalities, Credit Mobilier frauds and other similar impositions upon the people, that party controlled both Houses of Congress and the legislation at Washington. Still, in spite of all these serious drawbacks and hindrances to it by the Republican party, prosperity is here. What has induced its presence? We answer, Democratic ascendancy in Congress. Nothing else. Four years ago the Democratic party came in possession of the Lower House of the people's representatives at Washington. Then for the first time after many years of radical misrule, capitalists and business men all over the Union, knowing the conservative and steady character of Democratic legislation, felt a return of business confidence. Investments were made, from which large profits have been realized. An impetus heretofore unknown was given to manufacturers. Work became abundant and wages good.

Two years since the Democracy regained power in the United States Senate and ever since have held undisputed sway in both branches of Congress. Confidence in commercial circles is fully restored. Hard times have disappeared. The people are happy, contented and prosperous. All through Democratic ascendancy in Congress. Towards securing this prosperity, the Republican radical faction can lay no claim. It was brought about by the strong unshaken confidence the business men of all sections repose in the Democratic party. Good times are the legitimate fruits of Democratic rule in the national halls of legislation at Washington. Still better will be the condition of the American people when after the fourth of March next the Executive chair is filled by President Hancock.—Cleveland Plaindealer.

GOOD SPEAKERS WILL BE PRESENT.

Turn out, everywhere, and help to make a rousing majority for our Gallant Leader, GEN. HANCOCK, AND THE WHOLE TICKET.

W. L. Scott of Luzerne county has been nominated for Congress by the republicans of this district.

Henry Ward Beecher flatly announces himself a free trader. As a natural consequence he is in favor of the election of Garfield, member of the Cobden Free Trade Club.

Republican speakers are calling Hancock a "hireling," when speaking of his connection with the army, and his service to the country during the war. Such language is not only base ingratitude, but it is an insult to Gen. Grant, the man who the republican party want to make King in 1884. He was the same kind of a "hireling" that Gen. Hancock was.

HON. E. J. McHENRY.

The Senatorial Conference met at the Exchange Hotel in this place last Friday evening. After several sessions, no nomination being made, an adjournment was made to meet at Williamsport on Monday. On Tuesday E. J. McHenry was unanimously nominated. Mr. McHenry has twice represented this county in the lower house, and his record there gave satisfaction to his constituents. He has several times been selected as the choice of this county for the Senate, and now that he has received the nomination, will of course be elected. He is largely interested in business in this county and understands the wants of our people. That he will do his full duty no one can doubt. Our ticket is now complete. Let every Democrat work for the success of every name on it from Presidential electors, down.

INTIMIDATION OF VOTERS.

Among the measures used by the republicans to carry Ohio and Indiana was the intimidation of Democratic voters by republican employers. It may not be that the workingmen were distinctly threatened with discharge if they voted according to their own inclinations, but they were made to understand that their employers wanted them to vote the republican ticket. In some places notices were posted up that if Hancock is elected wages will be reduced to 60 cents a day. Others intimated that their works would close in case of Democratic success while still others openly stated that they had no employment for men who voted the democratic ticket. This sort of thing is not confined to Ohio and Indiana. It is being used all over the country by unscrupulous employers to compel their employees to vote for Garfield. It is of little moment whether voters be intimidated by the shot gun, or by threat to take the bread from the mouths of their families. There is no intimidation of voters in the South that can compare with the wholesale compulsion in the north, by which the workingmen are made the slaves of their employers, and compelled to vote against their own convictions or lose their situations.

Laws have been passed forbidding this thing which the republican party is doing to carry the election. In the United States statutes we find the following:

SECTION, 5,596. Every person who, by any unlawful means, hinders, delays, prevents or combines and confederates with others to hinder, delay, prevent or obstruct any citizen from doing any act required to be done to qualify him to vote or from voting at any election in any State, Territory, district, county, city, parish, township, school district municipality or other territorial subdivision, shall be fined not less than $500, or be imprisoned not less than one month nor more than one year, or be punished by both such fine and imprisonment.

SEC. 5,597. Every person who prevents, hinders, controls or intimidates another from exercising or in exercising the right of suffrage, to whom that right is guranteed by the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, by means of bribery or threats of depriving such person of employment or occupation, or of ejecting such person from a rented house, lands or other property, or by threats of refusing to renew leases or contracts for labor or by threats of violence to himself or family, shall be punished as provided in the preceeding section.

Any employer who attempts to control the votes of his employees is liable under the foregoing act.

There is another statute on the subject of intimidation of voters to be found in the criminal code of the State of Pennsylvania. It is that of the 30th of March, 1860, section 81, Purdon's Digest by Brightly, volume 1, p, 331: "Any person who * * * shall with the intention to influence or intimidate such elector to give his vote for any particular candidate or candidates at such election, give, offer or promise to give such elector any office, place, appointment or employment, or threaten such elector with dismissal or discharge from any office, appointment or employment, public or private, then held by him, in case of his refusal to vote for any particular candidate or candidates at such election, the person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and, on conviction, be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars and undergo an imprisonment not exceeding two years."

The only way to put an end to the use of such means to carry an election is to prosecute all offenders, and teach them that workingmen have rights under the laws which the money power is bound to respect.

Hancock on the Tariff

A LETTER FOR THE "BUSINESS PERILISTS" TO READ.

WHAT A TARIFF REVENUE REALLY MEANS THE BUSINESS OF THE COUNTRY MUST BE PROTECTED FROM UNDERPAID FOREIGN LABOR.

Gen. Hancock has written a letter to ex-Governor Randolph of New Jersey, in regard to the interview published in the Paterson Guardian.

GOVERNOR'S ISLAND, N. Y., October 12, 1880.—My Dear Governor: I have received your favor of the 11 inst. In my letter of acceptance I expressed my full sympathy with our American industries. I thought I spoke plainly enough to satisfy our Jersey friends regarding my tariff views. I am too sound an American to advocate any departure from the general features of a policy that has been largely instrumental in building up our industries and keeping Americans from the competition of the underpaid labor of Europe. If we intend to remain honest and pay the public debt, as good people of all parties do, and if we mean to administer the functions of the government then we must raise a revenue in some way or other. With a reunited and harmonious country we shall certainly in time pay off the public debt, but the necessity of raising money for the administration of the government will continue as long as human nature lasts. All parties agree that the best way for us to raise revenue is largely by the tariff. So far as we are concerned, therefore, all talk about "free trade" is folly. But the tariff question will probably be treated with justice to all our interests and people by some such bill as Eaton's. I believe that a commission of intelligent experts representing both the government and American industries, will suggest the tariff measures that will relieve us of any crudities and inconsistencies existing in our present laws and confirm to us the system which will be judicious just, harmonious and incidentally protective as well as stable in its effect.

I am, very truly yours,
WINFIELD S. HANCOCK.

Honorable Theo. Randolph, Morristown, New Jersey.

WORKINGMEN, READ!

From the New York Truth (Ind.) Oct. 20, 80.

GARFIELD'S DEATH WARRANT.

HIS INFAMOUS LETTER ADVOCATING AN EXTENDED CHINESE IMMIGRATION.

HE DECLARES HIMSELF ADVERSE TO THE LABORING MAN'S INTEREST AND IN FAVOR OF THE EMPLOYERS' UNION—ADVISING THEM TO EMPLOY THE CHEAPEST LABOR AVAILABLE.

NEW YORK, October 20.—The following was published in the Truth, this morning. The letter is authentic. It is in General Garfield's handwriting. Denial is worse than useless. It should have the widest circulation among all classes, as it unmasks the republican hollowness and hypocrisy on the labor question through their chief.

(Signed) WILLIAM BARNUM

Personal and Confidential.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 23d, 1880.

Dear Sir:

Yours in relation to the Chinese problem came duly to hand.

I take it that the question of employees is only a question of private and corporate economy, and individuals or companies have the right to buy labor where they can get it cheapest.

We have a treaty with the Chinese government, which should be religiously kept until its provisions are abrogated by the action of the general government, and I am not prepared to say that it should be abrogated until our great manufacturing interests are conserved in the matter of labor. Very truly yours,

J. A. GARFIELD.

H. L. MOREY,
Employers' Union, Lynn, Mass.

The original letter of which the foregoing is a true copy, is in Truth's possession. It was mailed at Washington by the republican candidate for president to Henry L. Morey, a prominent member of the employers' union, Lynn, Mass. At his death, which recently occurred, it was found among his effects.

The envelope enclosing it, the original of which is also in Truth's possession, is marked "personal," as carefully as the letter itself is marked "personal and confidential."

Can honest workingmen support by their votes such a man as Garfield.

Chairman Dill's Address.

"WE ARE DONE WITH SIDE ISSUES AND WEAK CANDIDATES—WE FIGHT FOR THE STATE."

The following address has been issued from the Democratic State committee rooms:

HEADQUARTERS STATE DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE,
PHILADELPHIA, October 14, 1880.

TO THE DEMOCRATS OF PENNSYLVANIA:

Indiana votes Republican by a small majority; Ohio holds her position as a Republican State. The latter was expected. The former is a disaster to our cause as Maine was to that of our opponents. Their success in Indiana is the result of means alike discreditable to those employing them and destructive of honest elections. The corrupt use of enormous sums of money and of organized fraud, protected by Federal power, against a weak candidate for Governor, has given Indiana temporarily to our foes. But Indiana will be redeemed, for Hancock is stronger than local candidates everywhere.

"Out of this nettle danger we will pluck the flower safety."

We are done with side issues and weak candidates, for November gives a broader field and Hancock is at the front.

Arouse the people everywhere. Push the column boldly. Give new force and increased vigor to the newspaper and the speaking canvass in every locality. Embolden the timid, encourage the hesitating. Redouble your efforts among the masses. Make them feel that this battle is for their rights and is against the power of money, organized fraud and a strong government. Appeal to their personal independence against the domination of employers; to personal right against corporate power; to State pride and love of country against centralized government and Federal corruption; to the rule of the people against an army of office-holders.

We fight for the State, for electors, Congressmen and the Legislature. Let it be with the earnest force of men who are determined to coerce victory and we can carry Pennsylvania for her gallant son. He saved the State and republic at Gettysburg. Let us rally with united forces and desperate energy to repay to him the debt of gratitude the people owe to him and to restore to the whole country unity, prosperity, and peace.

A. H. DILL, chairman.

Chairman Barnum's Views.

In speaking of the result in Ohio and Indiana, one day last week, Chairman Barnum said: "Any persons who impute lack of energy to this committee in the conduct of the campaign do not understand its work. Of course we have had to be economical in the expenditure of money. We could not command enough of that, not having a horde of officeholders to draw upon as the other side can at will. Our collections have only been from voluntary individual subscriptions, but these have been liberal, considering that they have been donations to a party out of power. I am pleased to say we have paid our way and do not owe a dollar. While the committee is not bankrupt and manages its finances closely and carefully, it is, nevertheless, in one sense always in want of money. The incidental and indispensable expenses of a campaign are always considerable. Money is not all in many cases. Energy counts for most as a general thing, but now and then money is the superior force for the moment of an occasion. It has proved the dominant power in Indiana. The Republicans literally purchased Indiana away from us. With all their command of wealth the Republicans cannot purchase every state in the Union in opposition to them, nor enough of the nearly balanced or doubtful States to gain ultimate success. They are through with Indiana and now will turn their power of money into new fields. Very likely they will concentrate their funds for use in this state, or make a feint of doing so and apply the bulk of their means elsewhere. We strove to conduct the campaign so as to hold Indiana and reduce their majority in Ohio. We were confident of Indiana, but the republican funds have been too powerful for us. In Ohio we have made an impression—that is to say, we kept down the former republican majority. There is a popular majority in the country for Hancock, and it can be bought out. What is wanted henceforth, for the remainder of the campaign, is active, energetic work by local committees everywhere. Success rests with them more than it does with the National Committee. Hancock's election does not depend upon the result in either Ohio or Indiana, or both. The people are for him, and they must be aroused to action and the vote for him brought out by the ceaseless activity of the local committees and clubs everywhere.

To the Manufacturers and Working Men of Pennsylvania.

THE TARIFF QUESTION SETTLED.

The following card appeared in the Philadelphia Sunday Mercury:

The Democrats, who now control both houses of Congress, have resolved that the tariff question shall no longer be a foot ball in politics. In December last EATON, of Connecticut, introduced a bill in the senate providing for the formation of a commission of nine experts, by whom all matters relating to the tariff on all articles shall be decided, and every member of the United States Senate voted in its favor. The bill is now on the table of the Speaker of the House and will be the first one to be taken up in December next. The speaker (SAMUEL J. RANDALL, of Pennsylvania,) and all the Democratic members are in favor of its passage. Read the remarks of the author of the bill, made a few days ago in a public speech:

"There is not a member from Gen Hawley up or down, not one from New England that won't vote for that bill when it comes up in the house, not one. They dare not do any other way. I want to tell you why they dare not do it. Because the manufacturing interests of Connecticut have decided themselves in favor of that bill; that is the reason. Because I hold in my hand, as the author of the bill, the petition of all the iron interests of the United States, the whole of it; the petition of all the cotton spinners of the United States, the whole of them asking for the passage of this bill. There came into my hands, sir, one petition signed by men all over New England, representing a body of men who consumed 1,500,000 bales of cotton; representing men who employed $300,000,000 capital; who employed 500,000 hands and gave bread and meat to 2,000,000 people. It is simply knavish to say that the Democratic party is against the interests of New England and the country. When a man makes a charge of that character against the party to which I am attached, when all the industrial interests have begged me to assist in the passage of this bill, I say it is knavish to charge that the Democratic party is opposed to the manufacturing interests of the country."

Now manufacturers of Pennsylvania! the tariff for the next four years will be nearly the same whether Garfield or Hancock be President, except so far as the executive influence, either directly or indirectly exercised, may be felt in the commission which will certainly be appointed. If the President be a representative of western farmers, Pennsylvania will have no interest whatever in regulating the future tariff, but if the President be a Pennsylvanian, that fact alone will exercise a certain influence when matters affecting the interests of Pennsylvania manufacturers are under consideration. The sharpest and shrewdest of our manufacturers see this, and are acting accordingly. Read the letter of GEORGE BULLOCK, proprietor of the Conshocken woolen mills. Read the opinions of the GRISWOLD BROTHERS, in Forney's Progress of last week, which contains much other matter of great interest to business men who wish to act intelligently, and, for your own interest and those of your workmen, be wise while there is yet time to exercise your own wisdom.

Merchants of Philadelphia! You also have a deep interest in the approaching election. When the extension of slavery was the question at issue many of you did nobly in sacrificing your commercial interests to oppose its extension; but now, when slavery has been abolished and pacification, or the restoration of good feeling in all sections is the great question to be decided, how do you propose to act? Do you propose to allow the City of New York to roll up a Democratic majority, as John Kelly promises, of 70,000, and its merchants to reap the benefit of it, while you are placed in the position of being regarded in the eyes of the world as narrow-minded, sectional, illiberal and monstrously ungrateful to the Union general who did more than any other man to save your homes and property from spoliation? Read FREEDLEY'S letter, republished in the Progress of October 9. Read the opinions of foremost business men published on the last page of Tuesday's Press, that "A change of administration will not be attended with disaster to any of the industrial or financial interests; on the contrary the election of HANCOCK and ENGLISH, by promoting peace, tranquility and contentment in the Southern States will stimulate emigration and business enterprise, the benefits of which will be felt in all sections and establish an era of commercial prosperity greater and more permanent than our country has heretofore enjoyed.

Among them are the names of:

COLONEL THOMAS A. SCOTT, late President of the Pennsylvania railroad.

FRANKLIN B. GOWEN, President of the Philadelphia and Reading railroad.

H. E. PACKER, of the Lehigh Valley railroad.

HENRY D. WELSH, President of the American Steamship Company.

WILLIAM MASSEY, Brewer and President of the Philadelphia and Atlantic railroad.

THOMAS G. HOOD, of Hood, Bonbright & Co.

JOHN O. James, of James, Santee & Company.

JOHN T. ROBBINS, Iron Manufacturer, Philadelphia.

JOHN A. DIALOGUE, Iron ship builder Camden, New Jersey.

E. R. McDOWELL, of Liebrandt & McDowell, Stove Co.

CHARLES T. HARRY, of the Baldwin Locomotive Works.

M. S. DOHAN, of Dohan & Taitt.

JOHN BAIRD, President of the City National Bank.

WILLIAM M'ALEER, President of the Chamber of Commerce and hundreds of others.

Garfield as a Know Nothing

James A. Garfield served in the Fortieth Congress, and on March 8, 1867, voted against the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, That this House extends its sympathy to the people of Ireland in their struggle for constitutional liberty.

In the House of Representatives, on April 17, 1871, this same James A. Garfield voted against the passage of the following resolution, although one of those incarcerated, as was well known to all members of Congress, was a poor clergyman, named Father McMahon, an American citizen who accompanied the Fenians to administer to their spiritual wants, should there be any battles:

WHEREAS, The prolonged incarceration in the prisons of the Dominion of Canada of persons accused of violating the neutrality laws is a source of irritation to a large number of American citizens: therefore,

Resolved, That the President of the United States be respectfully requested to have the case of such persons presented before a joint high commission, to the end that their relief may be effected.

Garfield ought to be grateful to the Democrats, for nobody else seems to consider him worth noticing in this campaign. Conkling dismisses him with a half-contemptuous sentence and gives reins to his eloquence only when he comes to speak of Arthur. Logan even scorns to mention the candidate by name. Cameron is eloquently silent, and Grant spells through a little speech, in which he does not even once allude to his would be successor.—Boston Post.

Three Cheers for our Next King.

From the New York Sun.

"Three cheers for Ulysses S. Grant, our next King."

This was the cry distinctly heard on the approach of the republican procession, last Monday night.

How many throats will repeat this cry in a New York republican procession four years hence?

This is a question of the highest interest. It is a question over the answer to which thoughtful men may well ponder.

There is no use of drugging yourself to death, and buying all the medicines for internal use when you can be cured of fever and ague, billious disorders, jaundice, dyspepsia, as well as all disorders and ailments of the liver blood, and stomach, by wearing one of Prof. Guilmette's French Liver Pads, which is a sure cure every time. If your druggist does not keep the pad, Send $1.50 in a letter to French Pad Co., Toledo, O., and it will be sent to you by mail. It is the only pad that is guaranteed to cure. A Leading German Republican Paper in Indiana Declares for Hancock.

The Deutsche Zeitung, published at New Albany, Ind., an ably conducted Republican paper, came out on the 25th of September for Hancock and English and the Democratic State and county tickets. Its publishers announce that they have become tired of the conduct and methods of the Republican party and say that the German voters desire the restoration of peace and good feeling between the North and South. Therefore the newspaper feels bound to follow the bulk of its readers and support the Democratic ticket. The editor, Mr. Otto Palmer, a man of great influence in his section, says the change is due solely to the conviction and belief that the time has come for a change in the administration of the government, because harmony and good will between the sections cannot be secured without it. He feels bound to declare that in reaching this conclusion he has been greatly influenced by the words and deeds of men like Judge Stallo, Jacob Muller, and Koerner, all of whom, formerly Republicans, now urge their countrymen to support the Democratic ticket.

The Radical Campaign Fund

The disastrous result of the radical cause in Maine cannot be attributed to any failure of the managers to apply the assessment screws to the employees at the Kittery Navy Yard. We have it upon reliable authority that each employee receiving $2 25 per day was compelled to pay $15 into the radical campaign fund; those getting $2 75 daily were assessed $25 each; those getting $3 per day paid $30; and those receiving $4 paid $40 into the fund, while the 'bosses' had to come down with $50 each. Notice was given that any refusing to contribute would lose their places forthwith. This looks like 'civil service reform' with a vengeance.

SELECT LIST OF LOCAL NEWSPAPERS.

An advertiser who spends upwards of $5,000 a year, and who invested less than $250 of it in this List, writes: "Your Select Local List paid me better last year THAN ALL THE OTHER ADVERTISING I DID."

It is not a Co-operative List.
It is not a Cheap List.
It is an Honest List.

The catalogue states exactly what the papers are. When the name of a paper is printed in FULL FACE TYPE it is in every instance the best. When printed in CAPITALS it is the ONLY paper in the place. The list gives the population of every town and the circulation of every paper.

The rates charged for advertising are barely one-fifth the publishers' schedule. The price for single States ranges from $2 to $80. The price for one inch one month in the entire list is $625. The regular rates of the papers for the same space and time are $2,980.14. The list includes 952 papers, of which 187 are issued DAILY and 765 WEEKLY. They are located in 788 different cities and towns, of which 26 are State Capitals, 363 places of over 5,000 population, and 488 County Seats. For copy of list and other information, address

THE COLUMBIAN.

BLOOMSBURG, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1880

John B. Casey has a Hancock boy, a brand new one.

Rev. S. Mitchel moved into the Manse on Third street last week.

The Junior Hancock and English club received their caps last week and had a parade on Saturday night.

William Hulmes, of Benton township has purchased the grist mill of T. B. Cole for $6500.

329 people went to Berwick last Saturday on the excursion train, from this point and other points below, to see the procession.

W. C. McKinney left home on Thursday for a trip to improve his health. We hope he will return much benefitted.

There will probably be a Democratic Mass Meeting in Bloomsburg next week. As soon as a speaker can be secured notice will be given through the county.

The republican torch light procession last Tuesday night numbered 198, including the Catawissa club and boys. They ought to have had at least 329.

Mr. Harry Birkenbine will please accept our thanks for a fine photograph of the engine house of the water company.

Prepare for winter. A large, handsome, near ly new, single or double heating parlor stove is for sale by Rev. S. Mitchell. Call at the Manse, 3rd street.

The Republicans had a torch light procession at Berwick last Saturday night. With the assistance of Bloomsburg, Shickshinny and several other places, they made quite a display.

"Our Candidate" will be played at the Opera House this (Thursday) evening, by the Richmond troupe. Since they were here in April the play has been remodeled and greatly improved. If you want a good laugh go and see it.

The COLUMBIAN is the only office in the county that had a display of printing at the fair. We gave notice the week before that we would exhibit some work, but no other office dared to compete, as none of them have the material to do the kind of work we turn out here. Their failure to compete is an open confession of the superiority of our job department.

The water works are now completed, and we believe everything is perfectly satisfactory. Mr. Birkenbine has used every effort to make a first class job, and has succeeded. During his stay here, Mr. Harry Birkenbine, under whose supervision the works were constructed, has made many friends who will be glad to see him back here in the future.

Representatives of the press are privileged characters on certain occasions. They are permitted to sit on the stage at public meetings, and admitted to the judges' stand at horse races. During the excitement at the Fair grounds on Saturday afternoon over the race, it occurred to us that if the excited crowd should overturn the stand, and annihilate everybody in it who was not sufficiently mangled by the fall, that it would be paying pretty dearly for being a press reporter. We hope the public will always discriminate between reporters and judges at a horse race.

The Democracy of Bloomsburg turned out on Wednesday night in the torch light parade in a way that showed that the Republican need not waste any of its sympathy on them. Two poles were raised on Main street at D. Lowenberg's and W. Gilmore's, and the large flag swung to the breeze. Immediately afterwards the procession was formed, Capt. U. H. Ent Chief Marshal. All the caps, sashes and torches were soon taken, and the procession started down Main street, headed by the Bloom band. As the head of the procession went down the Scott town hill, the tail end had not left the Court House. It was the largest procession we have had here for many years, and made a grand display. The best of it was that it was composed entirely of our home club, and far surpassed the republican procession of the night before, though they had a large delegation from Catawissa. Many houses were illuminated along the line, and the greatest enthusiasm prevailed. The reverse in Indiana has only served to arouse the Democracy all over the land, and they are going in now in dead earnest, to win. If there had been one hundred more torches they would all have been taken. There were 250 torches in line and a great number of men without torches.

THE COUNTY FAIR.

The fair which was held last week from Wednesday to Saturday was a success. The attendance on Friday was immense, it being estimated that from 10,000 to 12,000 people were on the grounds. Before noon it became necessary to refuse admission to vehicles, as all available space was filled. From the judges' stand, the view was a fine one. The entire enclosure was a solid mass of horses, wagons and people. The exhibits were as a general thing, good. In the ladies's department there was not so large a display as usual, while in some others it was much larger. There was a fine exhibition of Agricultural machinery, the most noticeable being that of D. M. Osborne & Co., represented by J. C. Townsend. Their self-binding harvester attracted much attention.

M. C. Sloan & Bro., showed a number of their excellent carriages and sleighs.

J. Saltzer, exhibited the White and Davis sewing machines and Estey organs, and some pianos. His booth was constantly surrounded by a crowd, witnessing the wonders performed by his sewing machines, and listening to the excellent music discoursed by his associates. There were other displays of musical instruments and sewing machines. There was about the usual exhibition of horses, cattle, poultry, &c.

T. C. Bomboy & Co., of Espy, showed a patent piano stool and Christmas tree holder combined. This is an ingenious arrangement, and meets a long felt want. Everybody has experienced the inconvenience of finding some means of holding a Christmas tree in position. This is just the thing. M. C. McCollum had his patent step ladder and clothes horse on hand, and explained its use to many admirers. But we cannot mention everything that was to be seen. Suffice it to say that the whole display was good. Columbia county has the reputation of having one of the best fairs in the State, and people from all the surrounding counties visit it annually.

The success of the fair is owing largely to the management of the officers. They are all men of business, and left nothing undone to secure a large attendance and give satisfaction. Mr. F. B. Hartman, the Secretary, has proved a very efficient officer, and through his efforts excursion rates were obtained from points which had never before had them. If anything occurred to displease anyone it was through no fault of the officers and committees. They did not exhibit that spirit of close economy which has been practiced by some boards in past years to the detriment of the exhibition, but advertised liberally, and to this in a great measure may be attributed the large attendance. The officers are as follows: E. J. McHenry, President; C. L. Sands, M. G. Hughes, Freas Fowler, U. H. Ent, Vice Presidents; F. B. Hartman Secretary; J. F. Peacock, Treasurer; W. H. Abbott, Librarian; Executive Committee, N. H. W. Brown, P. A. Evans, W. Shaffer.

The receipts this year were about $3600. This is about $650 more than last year, and more than ever was received before.

There will be a big Democratic meeting at Berwick to-morrow, the 23rd.

It is expected that Prof. Colgrove will lecture at the Normal School on Tuesday evening. Subject, "What is the matter with our English grammars."

There was lots of music at the Fair. The gray-coat Catawissa band was employed by the Society. On Friday, the other Catawissa Band, the Orangeville, Espy, Afton and Bloom bands were all on the grounds, and all did credit to their respective towns.

CLUB MEETING.

At Exchange, Montour county, the Hancock and English club, presided over by Wm. Pollock, Esq., met at their hall on Tuesday evening, October 12th.

There was a large attendance, although the notice was very short. That old democratic township will give a fine vote in November.

The club was addressed by John G. Freeze, Esq. in a speech of considerable length, going elaborately over many pending questions.

PERSONAL.

Jerome P. Woodring, formerly of this town now residing at Johnstown, Cambria county, attended the fair. He has a situation in a store at Johnstown.

Col. Stead, of the 12th Penn'a. Regiment, Major Starkweather, of Gen. Seigfried's staff, both of Williamsport, and Lieut. Colonel M. J. Keck, 9th Regiment, of Hazleton, were in town last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Long, of Troy, Pa., spent Sunday in town with friends.

Miss Katie Swartwout spent last week with Miss Annie Sloan.

Miss Ella McKinney returned last week from Susquehanna county, where she spent several weeks with Miss Morris.

Mr. Geo. H. Little, of Bradford county is visiting his brother E. H. Little, Esq.

THE RACES.

The county sporting list opened on Thursday at one o'clock. The entries were as follows: Bay Frank, by C. P. Armstrong; Billy, by S. W. Adams; Brown Harry, by M. Craig; Bay Dan, by W. Hartzel; Clifton Boy, by D. C. Black. Frank took first money, by winning the 2nd, 4th and 5th heats. Bay Dan took second money, and Clifton Boy 3rd. The heats were made made in the following time, respectively, 2:45, 2:37, 2:35, 2:36, 2:34.

For Friday morning race, colt trot, the following were entered: Dexter, by W. W. Sutliff; Percheron, by J. Hayman; Trotting Joe, by E. D. Hagenbuch. Dexter won the first three heats and took first money. Trotting Joe 2nd and Percheron 3rd. Time, 3:15, 3:16, 3:04.

Friday afternoon, 1 o'clock, C. P. Armstrong entered Bay Frank; S. W. Adams entered Billy; W. Hartzel entered Bay Dan, and G. K. Hess entered Young Rover. Bay Frank won the race, Bay Dan took 2nd money, Billy 3rd. Time, 2:35, 2:36, 2:34, 2:33.

The free to all race on Saturday afternoon was expected to be a fine one. There were four entries, viz: John Houghton, entered by Dr. Treon; Hotspur, entered by J. L. Freck; Little Joe, by Eli Ager; Lem, by James Hicks; Hattie Fisher, by Sol. Bunnell. The latter did not come on the track. At about two o'clock, the horses were called up, and after considerable scoring, were sent off. John Houghton soon taking the lead. On the opposite side of the track from the stand Hotspur broke into a run and did not come down until he reached the next corner, gaining on John Houghton by the run. The trot was then pretty fair until the south end of the course was reached on the second round, when Hotspur again broke and ran past John Houghton, nearly a length, which distance he kept up on the home stretch and went under the wire a neck ahead, Lem 3rd, and Little Joe 4th. John Houghton did not make a skip, and it at once became apparent which was the favorite horse with the crowd. The judges, Messrs. Vanderslice, Dildine, Morris, Jackson and Fetterman, were unable to agree on a decision, and after considerable talk a vote was taken, resulting in the first two named in favor of John Houghton, and the last three for Hotspur. The majority ruling, the decision was announced, giving the heat to Hotspur, when the crowd which had gathered about the stand immediately displayed their disapprobation of what they considered an unjust decision. After a good deal of talking by the crowd, the judges concluded to call the heat a dead one, and Dr. Treon was called into the judges' stand to talk the matter over, but he refused to go on with the race, as he had already withdrawn his horse and sent him up town. He then left the grounds himself. In the mean time Eli Ager had withdrawn his horse, as it had gone lame on the heat, the result of a recent injury, thus leaving only two horses on the track. It becoming evident to the judges that there would be no race unless Dr. Treon came back, F. R. Jackson changed his vote and agreed to give the heat to John Houghton. O. T. Wilson was despatched as a messenger to Dr. Treon, to say that his horse could take the heat. After an absence of nearly an hour, he returned to the judges' stand and announced that Dr. Treon would not come back. He said that if the judges were not men enough to give him the heat at first, he did not want it now. Mr. Wilson was a good deal excited and used some language that was entirely uncalled for, and in some places might have led the excited crowd which surrounded him to do violence to the judges and everybody else on the stand. Three cheers were given for John Houghton, and the speaker proceeded to say from his wagon that the judges were a set of monkeys, and that there was not a gentleman on the stand with the exception of T. J. Vanderslice and J. K. Dildine. This last assertion was a broad one, as there were only three judges on the stand at the time, all the others being the officers of the society and newspaper reporters who had nothing to do with the race. Mr. Wilson afterwards explained that he referred to no one but the judges who made the decision. We repeat his words here only because he made his speech to a large crowd, and we cannot explain what he intended to say, without telling what he actually said.

There were several mistakes made in this whole transaction. First, the three judges undoubtedly made a mistake in giving the heat to Hotspur. It honestly belonged to John Houghton, and the only persons on the stand who thought otherwise were the three judges who decided against him. Second, Dr. Treon made a mistake in not coming back on the track, when the judges offered him just what he asked for in the first place, and third, Mr. Wilson made a mistake in making an uncalled attack on the officers of the society by charging that they had promised Hotspur the race if he would enter. This charge the board indignantly denies.

The crowd was evidently not aware that the decision was reversed and that the 1st heat would be given to John Houghton if he would come back, when Mr. Wilson was talking, or they would not have made so much demonstration.

About this time the other two horses were called up, and as there was a dispute about which should have the pole, Hotspur's driver refused to trot, and the race was declared off. And that is all there is about the great race that didn't take place last Saturday. That the crowd was disappointed was a matter over which the officers of the society had no control, and are in no way to blame.

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the Hancock and English Club of Benton was held at that place on Tuesday evening. After the preliminaries had been gone through with, E. B. Beishline was introduced to the audience, who spoke for nearly two hours in a masterly and eloquent style. He clearly reviewed the past history of the Republican party, and dwelt upon issues of the campaign in a forcible manner. The democracy of Benton is fully alive to the question of the day, and will poll a largely increased vote for Hancock and English. The meeting was enlivened by excellent music furnished by the Benton Band.

COMRADES:—

The time has come for us to show the faith that is in us.

Wellington at Waterloo, at the critical moment of the battle, said to his chosen Corps "up guards and at them." Napoleon was defeated, and dynasties in Europe changed.

We were defeated at Bull Run, but with McClellan we won Antietam.

We lost Chancellorsville,—we lost Reynolds and the first day's fight at Gettysburg, but with Hancock we won the field, and crushed rebellion.

Let us now to the front, "and from the nettle danger pluck the flower, safety."

Those who have now joined our organization and who desire to do so, should send in their names at once to these Head Quarters.

Let there be one grand rally for our commander, distinguished alike for services in the Mexican war—on the frontier,—in the late rebellion, and in his thorough knowledge of civil duties.

No rebel or other false claims will be paid by his consent.

As a Pennsylvanian he has pledged himself to aid in protecting our home industries.

As a soldier, he will regard the interest of his ate comrades.

How She Saved Her Darling.

"I shall never again feel so awfully nervous about my babies teething," writes a grateful mother. We almost lost our little darling by a long attack of cholera infantum, but happily heard of Parker's Ginger Tonic in time. I took a few spoonfuls myself, which soon cured my nursing baby entirely, and an occasional dose has kept me and baby in such perfectly good health, and made us so strong and comfortable that I would not be without this reliable medicine for worlds."—A Mother of Brooklyn. oct

There is a Balm in Gilead.

The success which has marked the introduction of Cream Balm, a Catarrh remedy, prepared by Ely Bros., Owego, N. Y., is indeed marvelous. Many persons in Pittston and vicinity are using it with most satisfactory results. A lady down town is recovering the sense of smell which she had not enjoyed for fifteen years through the use of the Balm. She had given up her case as incurable. Mr. Barber, the druggist, has used it in his family and commends it very highly. In another column, a young Tunkhannock lawyer, known to many of our readers, testifies that he was cured of partial deafness. It is certainly a very efficacious remedy.—Pittston Pa., Gazette, Aug. 14, 1879.

HOW TO GET almost Everything.

Do you know how to get in the easiest way and to best advantage what you want for dress and house-furnishing?

First, how: Write for a catalogue; see what you can learn from it about the things you want. If samples can be useful to you, ask for them and state your wants so plainly that exactly the right samples can be sent.

Second, where: The place where goods are kept in the greatest variety; where they are sold for what they really are in respect to quality; where prices are lowest; where most care is taken to serve customers acceptably; and where you have the right to return whatever is not satisfactory.

There—no matter where you are—if you make your wants known and avail yourself of your privileges, you will get the best things in the best way, promptly and without trouble or risk; sometimes by mail, sometimes by express, almost always at less cost for carriage than the money you save in the price.

The Effect Upon Business Interest.

The favorite argument against a change of administration is the injury that will be done to the business interests of the country. To listen to the speeches and to read the articles upon this subject it might be inferred that the country was really in the keeping of the Republican party, and would go straightway to ruin if not looked after by its candidates. Milton described an eclipse as shedding disastrous twilight on half the nations, and with fear of change perplexing monarchs, but an eclipse was never half such a bugaboo as the probable election of General Hancock, if we are to judge from what we read in Republican papers. Those who write and talk such stuff must have a very low opinion of the good sense of the people of the United States, for they know very well that the fact is the country gets along as well as it does in spite of the politicians, and not because of their protecting care. Two or three very plain propositions will dispose of the pretence that the success of any party is essential to our welfare:

First. The men who constitute the administration to-day, with one or two exceptions, never had ability enough to manage their own business in such a way as to greatly distinguish themselves, and if Mr. Hayes never became anything more than a second or third-rate lawyer in a small city like Cincinnati it is absurd to suppose that by making him President he would be forthwith made capable of controlling the business interests of the whole country. Mr. Evarts was, of course, of a higher grade; but after all, he was pretty accurately described by the late Judge Grier as a "mere sentence monger." Mr. Sherman has shown fair business capacity in his own affairs, but there are fifty men on Third street and twice fifty on Wall street who are his superiors, and there is not one of the rest of them who could get half the salary in any private corporation he now receives. It is a hackneyed quotation of the saying of Chancellor Oxenstiern: "Go, my son, and see with what little wisdom the world is governed." But the greatest lack of wisdom is on the part of the governed when they come to think they owe everything to their rulers; for, certainly, if the men in office have not succeeded in private life it is folly to suppose that they are any better capable to manage the affairs of other people. If the country really needed to be taken care of, it would be in a bad way in such hands. But, luckily, the great American people have it and themselves in their own keeping, and if they wish to change their servants—not their rules—they need not and will not be afraid to do it.

Second. If our present prosperity is due to the Republican party, how does it happen that in 1873, when the panic occurred, and during the long years of the steady decline in values thereafter, the Republican party, having full control of all departments of the Government, did not arrest the depreciation and ruin, and restore confidence and property? And why was it that it was not until the Democratic party had acquired control of the House of Representatives that there was a check to the fall, and not until it had secured the Senate the reaction set in? If we were to judge by the order of events, we might say the Republican party was responsible for the breakdown in 1873, and the Democrats entitled to the credit of the revival of business which began to show itself in 1878, and fairly set in by 1879; but the truth is that this, too, would be absurd. The advance in prices, which is sometimes mistaken for prosperity, went on all over the world till 1873, and the decline was equally universal till 1879, and for these general movements up and down neither party is responsible.

Third. It does not follow, however, that it is a matter of indifference to business men whether one party or the other gets in. The mania for railway building, stimulated by improvident land grants, had much to do with the unnatural high prices of 1872 and the completeness of the collapse that followed the next year, and the misgovernment and plundering of the Southern States from 1865 to 1878 delayed the restoration of prosperity in that section. The Republican policy was certainly fairly tested down there, and if we are to believe the accounts given by Republicans themselves, it only led to the robbery and massacre of the negroes. That policy was given up four years ago, and by common consent good order now prevails; the negroes are well paid and well fed, and while we hear a great deal about the wheat crop making resumption possible, the value of the cotton exported is almost equal to that of both wheat and flour—$212,000,000 last year, as against about—$225,000,000—and if it had not been for Republican misrule in the South, we might have had 'the good times' a year or two sooner. Fortunately, what has been done in the South can not be undone, and there is no great chance for mischief left. Upon the whole, therefore, we do not think it greatly matters whether one half-dozen of men or another sit around the Cabinet table in Washington during the next four years. So long as prices keep going up, the people will think themselves prosperous, and when the turn comes, four or five or ten years hence, they will think that the world has come to an end again; but whether they are to be rich or poor, successful or unfortunate, will depend upon their own conduct. If they wish to be happy, they must be virtuous, and that is all there is about it.

SCRIPTURAL.—"Simmons' Liver Regulator is certainly a specific for that class of complaints which it claims to cure. Of its beneficial effects we do know something; and from personal experiments, it is our opinion that its virtues have not been exaggerated by the many flattering notices of the press. If any of our fellow beings are suffering from hepatic disorders, and have doubts in relation to the efficacy of this popular preparation we can only offer them the simple and candid argument of Philip to Nathaniel 'Come and see.' Try the proposed remedy, and then you can judge for yourselves.

"Rev. David Willis, President of Oglethorpe College and pastor of Presbyterian church, Macon, Ga., Prof. University of South Carolina."

It is astonishing how completely some people can be absorbed in their own thoughts. A prominent candidate, who gives up the whole of his mind to politics, met a prominent church member, who remarked that his church had just got a new organ. "I hope it will support the regular nominees," was the absent-minded reply.

"A clear brain and a right aim" is manifested by mothers who keep Dr. Bull's Baby Syrup handy. Always reliable and contains nothing injurious.

Mr. Edward Clark, architect of the National Capitol, reports the following amounts expended for Capitol improvement and repairs for the fiscal year ending June 1, '80: Capitol extension, $50,000; ventilating the hall of the House of Representatives, $30,000; heating apparatus for the United States Senate $4,000; lighting Capitol and grounds, $32,000; Capitol grounds improvements, $60,000; extension to Government Printing Office building, $43,500; total, $219,500.

THE PLATFORM

The Democrats of the United States, in convention assembled, declare:

FIRST. We pledge ourselves anew to the constitutional doctrines and traditions of the Democratic party as illustrated by the teaching and example of a long line of Democratic statesmen and patriots and embodied in the platform of the last National Convention of the party.

SECOND. Opposition to centralization and to that dangerous spirit of encroachment which tends to consolidate the powers of all the departments in one, and thus to create, whatever be the form of government, a real despotism. No sumptuary laws; separation of Church and State, for the good of each; common schools fostered and protected.

THIRD. Home rule; honest money—the strict maintenance of the public faith—consisting of gold and silver and paper convertible into coin on demand; the strict maintenance of the public faith State and national, and a tariff for revenue only.

FOURTH. The subordination of the military to the civil power, and a general and thorough reform of the civil service.

FIFTH. The right to a free ballot is the right preservative of all rights, and must and shall be maintained in every part of the United States.

SIXTH. The existing Administration is the representative of conspiracy only, and its claim of right to surround the ballot boxes with troops and deputy marshals to intimidate and obstruct the electors, and the unprecedented use of the veto to maintain its corrupt and despotic power, insults the people and imperils their institutions.

SEVENTH. The great fraud of 1876-'77 by which, upon a false count of the electoral votes of two States, the candidate defeated at the polls was declared to be President, and for the first time in American history the will of the people was set aside under a threat of military violence, struck a deadly blow at our system of representative government. The Democratic party, to preserve the country from the horrors of a civil war, submitted for the time, in firm and patriotic faith that the people would punish this crime in 1880. This issue precedes and dwarfs every other. It imposes a more sacred duty upon the people of the Union than ever addressed the conscience of a nation of freemen.

EIGHTH. We execrate the course of this Administration in making places in the civil service a reward for political crime, and demand a reform by statute which shall make it forever impossible for the defeated candidate to bribe his way to the seat of a usurper by billetting villians upon the people.

NINTH. The resolution of Samuel J. Tilden not again to be a candidate for the exalted place to which he was elected by a majority of his countrymen, and from which he was excluded by the leaders of the Republican party, is received by the Democrats of the United States with sensibility, and they declare their confidence in his wisdom, patriotism and integrity unshaken by the assaults of a common enemy, and they further assure him that he is followed into the retirement he has chosen for himself by the sympathy and respect of his fellow-citizens, who regard him as one who, by elevating the standards of public morality and adorning and purifying the public service, merits the lasting gratitude of his country and his party.

TENTH. Free ships and a living chance for American commerce on the seas and on the land. No discrimination in favor of transportation lines, corporations or monopolies.

ELEVENTH. Amendment of the Burlingame treaty. No more Chinese immigration except for travel, education and foreign commerce, and therein carefully guarded.

TWELFTH. Public money and public credit for public purposes solely, and public land for actual settlers.

THIRTEENTH. The Democratic party is the friend of labor and the laboring man, and pledges itself to protect him alike against the cormorants and Commune.

FOURTEENTH. We congratulate the country upon the honesty and thrift of a Democratic Congress, which has reduced the public expenditure $40,000,000 a year; upon the continuation of prosperity at home and the national honor abroad, and above all, upon the promise of such a change in the Administration of the Government as shall insure us genuine and lasting reform in every department of the public service.

Grateful Women.

None receive so much benefit, and none are so profoundly grateful and show such an interest in recommending Hop Bitters as women. It is the only remedy peculiarly adapted to the many ills the sex is almost universally subject to. Chills and fever, indigestion or deranged liver, constant or periodical sick headaches, weakness in the back or kidneys, pain in the shoulders and different parts of the body, a feeling of lassitude and despondency, are all readily removed by these bitters.—Courant

PERFECTLY SAFE IN THE MOST INEXPERIENCED HANDS!

For Diarrhœa, Dysentory, Cramps, Cholera,
AND ALL THOSE NUMEROUS TROUBLES OF THE STOMACH AND BOWELS
SO PREVALENT AT THIS SEASON,
No Remedy known to the Medical Profession has been in use so long and with such uniformly satisfactory results as

PERRY DAVIS' VEGETABLE PAIN KILLER

It has been used with such wonderful success in all parts of the world in the treatment of these difficulties, that it has come to be considered

AN UNFAILING CURE FOR ALL SUMMER COMPLAINTS

and such it really is when taken in time and according to the very plain directions inclosing each bottle.

In such diseases, the attack is usually sudden and frequently very acute; but with a safe remedy at hand for immediate use, there is seldom danger of the fatal result which so often follows a few days' neglect.

The inclination to wait and see if the morrow does not bring a better feeling, not infrequently occasions a vast amount of needless suffering, and sometimes costs a life. A timely dose of Pain Killer will almost invariably save both, and with them the attendant doctor's fee.

It has stood the test of forty years' constant use in all countries and climates, and is perfectly safe in any person's hands.

It is recommended by Physicians, Nurses in Hospitals, and persons of all classes and professions who have had opportunity for observing the wonderful results which have always followed its use.

THE BEST EVIDENCE:

I have long used the medicine known as PERRY DAVIS' VEGETABLE PAIN KILLER in my family and would not on any account be without it. When Cholera was last epidemic here, I used no medicine of any sort but the Pain Killer, and although myself and several members of my family were attacked severely, I am happy to say that the Pain Killer was equal to every emergency. I consider I should not be doing my duty to the community did I not say this much. If I were attacked by the Cholera today, Pain Killer would be the only remedy I should use. I have thoroughly tested it, and know it can be relied on.
F. E. BERGINSEND, Galena, Illinois.

Messrs. PERRY DAVIS & SON:
I know you need no testimonial to convince you that your medicine is all that you claim for it, but I cannot restrain the impulse to communicate to you the fact that in my family it has truly done wonders. I administer it to my children (one eighteen months, and the other three years old) with perfect success. It regulates their bowels, and stops all diarrhœa. Myself and wife resort to it in all cases, both for internal and external use. I've used it in my family for five years, and will not be without it. Feeling myself under much obligation to you, in many times being relieved from pain, I am very truly yours,
L. F. MOORE, Bangall, Dutchess Co., New York.

No family can afford to be without it, and its price brings it within the reach of all.
The use of one bottle will go further to convince you of its merits than columns of newspaper advertising. Try it, and you will never do without it.
Price 25c. 50c. and $1.00 per bottle. You can obtain it at any drug-store or from

THE GREAT MEXICAN REMEDY.

Thousands suffering from Dyspepsia, Habitual Costiveness, Liver and Kidney Complaints, Scrofula and kindred diseases, will hail with delight this new and wonderful discovery, which as a disease conqueror or health restorer, has no equal in modern medicine. The Great Mexican Remedy was first introduced into California in 1879, where in a few months it effected so many wonderful cures as to create a demand for the medicine from Maine to Florida. It is the only medicine in the world compounded from the native plants, roots and herbs of Mexico. It cures all Humors, from the worst Scrofula, to a common blotch, pimple, or eruption, while it clears and beautifies the complexion. In diseases of the Stomach, Blood, Liver and Kidneys it has permanently cured thousands of hopeless cases where all other known remedies had failed. One dose will cure any case of Sick Headache. Two doses will break up any ordinary cough or cold. Persons suffering with Heartburn, Waterbrash, Sour Stomach, Biliousness, Costiveness, Piles, Palpitation of the Heart, Low Spirits, and kindred affections, will find the Mexican remedy a swift and sure relief. The genuine is placed before the public, under the following name:

Herbaline Bitters the Great Mexican Remedy.

Call on your druggist and get a bottle of the Mexican Remedy, and convince yourself that it is the Best Medicine in the World.
